

Tiffany's Waterfall

I found myself under a waterfall, in the rainforest.
I soak my feet in the water where the water crashes down.
My umbrella protects me from the furious water rushing down from the rocks above me. I am surrounded by different shades of green.
I hear the sound of the water running down frantically.
I am seated on the mossy and rocky ground.
The water looks horrible to swim in, but I say that it's crystal clear.
The temperature is warm, and the only animal that keeps me company is the river creatures. I don't really know why I am here but it was an experience I will never forget.
